RCMA At Work

RCMA Contractor Virtual Training Program

A three-lesson technical course to help roof coatings professionals better understand roof coating technology responsible use.

Saving our Industry from $3M in Mandatory Testing

Worked with CRRC board members and staff to implement the rough substrates program in a fair and responsible path forward for manufacturers, saving our members from significant retesting costs.

Environmental Product Declaration

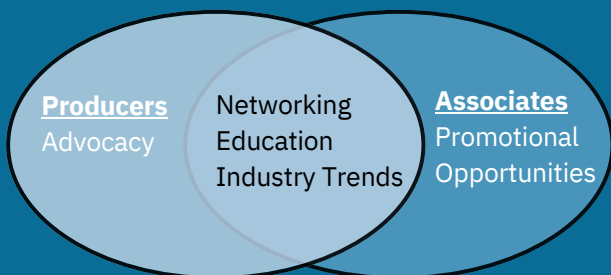

Identifying the sustainability of construction products — including the benefits to building durability and energy efficiency — is paramount in today's roofing industry. RCMA members participate in the development and maintenance of industry EPDs that help designers and specifiers select coating products based on their environmental attributes.

Governmental and Technical Affairs

From California to Florida, RCMA engages on issues of interest to the roof coatings industry — whether it means managing VOC requirements in the California Air Quality Districts, or addressing the property insurance crisis in Florida and the impact on the roof coatings market — RCMA is here for you to help provide the collective voice of the roof coatings industry. RCMA represents its members and the industry before codes and standards bodies including the Cool Roof Ratings Council (CRRC), ASHRAE, ASTM International, and the International Code Council (ICC).

The Roof Coatings Manufacturers Association - RCMA is the leading industry voice, promoting the benefits of roof coatings and helping members strengthen and maintain their standing in the roof coatings industry.
